As the creator of some of the most widely recognized knives in the industry today, Gil Hibben's knowledge and over 60 years of experience are unprecedented in the world of custom knife making. He is the creator of the popular Rambo™ III bowie and Rambo™ IV machete, each specially made for the Sylvester Stallone films. He has also produced one-of-a-kind blades for personalities, like John Wayne, Elvis Presley, Steve McQueen, and Steven Seagal.

Gil produced knives for our servicemen to use in Vietnam, and his first-hand experience as an Alaskan hunting guide, throwing knife expert, and sixth-degree black belt in Kenpo Karate have contributed to his creating some of the most popular knives of the 20th Century. Mr. Hibben was inducted into the Knife Throwers Hall of Fame in October 2003 for his many contributions to throwing knife designs. Shikoto™
BATTLE FORGED

Shikoto® blades are privately made by our master swordsmiths in the Longquan mountains. Although some modern production methods are used, each Shikoto® sword is made one at a time, with hammer forged and hand polished blades.

Longquan is a famous weapon and sword-making city remotely located in the Qinxi mountains of the Zhejiang Province of China. Longquan's sword making history can be traced back to the Warring Period, over 2500 years ago, when Bronze Age smiths began to forge iron weapons there. The region had everything needed - plentiful natural iron deposits in the streams with which to forge blades and hilt fittings, an ample supply of wood from the surrounding forests to make handles and scabbards, pure clay with which to temper the blades, and pure fresh water from springs. Today it is home to both production sword factories and custom sword smiths, making every quality level of swords, from inexpensive display models to high end, functional martial arts swords. There are still many sword smiths in Longquan. Even though they use some modern niceties, like electric blowers for their forges rather than bellows, they still craft swords using traditional methods, making hand-forged masterpieces used by martial artists around the world.

MASTER SWORDSMITH
HAND FORGED SWORD
LONGQUAN 龍泉, CHINA

New Hand-Made Shikoto™ Swords From The Longquan Masters

When you hold a Shikoto Hammer-Forged Longquan Master sword in your hand, you are holding the same weapon a warrior used more than 2,500 years ago. Using methods used by Bronze Age swordsmiths, each T10 high carbon steel blade has been hammer-forged and clay tempered to produce a visible hamon line. Differential hardening gives these magnificent swords a harder cutting edge and a softer spine, which is the hallmark of a high-quality weapon. The tsukas and handle fittings are of solid iron and the wooden handles have traditional cord wrapping over genuine, tea-dyed rayskin. Black lacquered and polished wooden scabbards with cord-wrapping house the blades. Also included with each sword is a certificate of authenticity with forging specifications, signed by the master swordsmith who crafted the blade.
